Sex, Gender, Health:
Interdisciplinary Perspectives Symposium

Friday March 1st 2013

105 Harriman Hall
South Campus
9 am – 4:30 pm

Sex and Gender Medicine is distinct from women's health (ovaries, uterus, etc) and men's health (prostate, erectile dysfunction, etc.). Understanding the intersections between sex, gender and wellbeing will improve health outcomes for all. Men (and male animals) have been the basis of much medical and health research, but males are not normative for the whole species, and females are not a deviation from the norm. This one day symposium brings together UB Faculty and Community Leaders to provide information, stimulate discussion, and initiate novel interactions.

Speakers Include:

Gale Burstein, MD, Erie County Commissioner of Health
Michael Rembis, PhD, Director of the Center for Disability Studies
Kim Griswold, MD, MPH, Department of Family Medicine
Mary Travers Murphy, Executive Director, Family Justice Center
Susan Mangold, JD, co-Director of the Family Law Program
Stella King, MD, Department of Family Medicine
Suzanne Tomkins, JD, Director of the Women, Children, and Social Justice Clinic
Lucinda Finley, JD, Vice Provost for Faculty Affairs

The Institute for Research & Education on Women & Gender

THIS SYMPOSIUM IS FREE, AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC.
Registration is requested:
http://genderin.buffalo.edu/sexgenderhealth.shtml
rburke2@buffalo.edu
645-5200

Registration & Schedule: